WHERE IT ALL BEGAN

Most days, you have the opportunity to meet James right in the shop, sometimes accompanied by his best helper, son James, who already slings a pretty mean latte. Within moments of an introduction in his coffee shop, it is very clear that James Bendel has lived quite a lot of life. Over top of "The War Room" entrance hangs four clocks showing the four time zones of James's background: Pittsburgh, PA, Little Rock, AR, Sacramento, CA and Baghdad, Iq. Born and raised in Latrobe, PA, Jim graduated from Greater Latrobe in 2001 and went off to the army at just 17. After overcoming some physical obstacles in passing basic training, Bendel went to Fort Lewis, Washington as a private in 2002. During his first tour in Iraq from '03-'04, his platoon was ambushed on September 5, 2004 and he was hit in the chin by a bullet and peppered with shrapnel from a rocket-propelled grenade. The injury was not enough to deter him; he re-enlisted and continued onto a second tour in Iraq from '06-'07 during which he was shot in the head by a sniper on his birthday in August in Baghdad. Thanks to his helmet, Jim survived the hit and was able to spend the rest of his tour managing the troop's arms room, maintaining the accountability of all the weapons for the four platoons in his troop and learning many of the professional leadership skills he utilizes today while working alongside the troop's executive officers.

Bendel finished his army career in 2008 as a Sergeant, decorated with a Purple Heart, and spent a couple years in marketing positions before he found his niche in the oil industry in 2010.

So how does a successful oil industry executive wind up starting a coffee shop as a side venture? During his time managing the various oil and gas companies, Jim spent many hours working remotely from coffee shops. On Veterans Day in 2017, he decided that he wanted to open his own shop from where he could work, to run a start-up of his own and create a community hub for business. "I enjoy the 'quiet in a crowded room' atmosphere. [Coffee shops] pose a great all around business environment whether you want to be among people to network with or be quiet with your thoughts grinding away at what the week has stacked up against you."
